

Difference between laptop, desktop and tablet-

A laptop is a portable form of computer device with all of its input, output, and other constituent units inbuilt in one single package. A tablet is a light-weighted, portable, touch screen computer device that usually operates on a mobile OS. It is comparatively bigger and thicker than a typical tablet.