

What is the name of computer accessories?

For a computer system to operate, some basic parts are required such as a mouse, keyboard, monitor, power cord, and computer case as well as its internal components.