

Q. Emails and their importance

A. Email is important for communication because it allows users to send information in letter format, and email can replace traditional mail options. Emails can be more beneficial for communication because they can often include text, documents and multimedia, like photos and videos.