

Assignment - 03

Communication & Softskill

Elaborate the process & Elements of communication in detail through suitable examples:

Elements of communication Process:

- Sender: He is the person who sends his idea to another person.....
- Message: The idea, feeling, suggestion or, guidelines order or any content which is intended to be communicated is message.....
- Encoding.....
- Media.....
- Decoding.....
- Receiver.....
- feed back.....
- Noise.....

Elements of Communication Process:

Communication Process involves elements like Sender receiver encoding decoding channel/ Media, voice and feedback these elements are explained below.

Elements and Importance of Communication Process in Business Management.

Article shared by:

ADVERTISEMENTS:

The different elements of Communication are as under:

ADVERTISEMENTS :-

1. Sender : He is the person who sends his ideas to another person for example of a manager wants to inform his subordinates about the introduction of a new product he is the sender.
2. Message - The idea, feeling, suggestion, guidelines, order or any content which is intended to be communicated is message or example, message is the introduction of new product.

ADVERTISEMENTS

3. Encoding - It is the process of converting the idea thinking any other component of message into symbols, words, actions, diagram etc. for example message is converted in word and actions.
4. Media - It is the medium passage or route through which encoded message is passed by the sender to the receiver there can be various forms of media - face communication, letter, radio, television, e-mail etc. for example manager inform about the introduction of new product is a meeting.

through Presentation.

ADVERTISEMENTS :

5. Decoding - It means translation of the communication encoded message into language understandable by the receiver.

↑

Receiver - He is the Person to whom the message has been sent for example. Subordinates are receiver.

ADVERTISEMENTS :-

7. Feed back :- It is the response by the receiver. It marks the completion of the communication Process.

8. Noise - It is the hindrance in the Process of communication. It can take place at any step in the entire process and reduces the accuracy of communication. e.g. 1) Disturbance in the telephone lines. 2) An inattentive receiver's improper Decoding of Message etc.

Communication Process Consists of following steps -

1. The Sender formulates the message that he wants.

to convey to the receiver.

- ii) He encodes or translates his message. He may take the help of symbols, words, actions, diagram, pictures etc.

ADVERTISEMENTS:

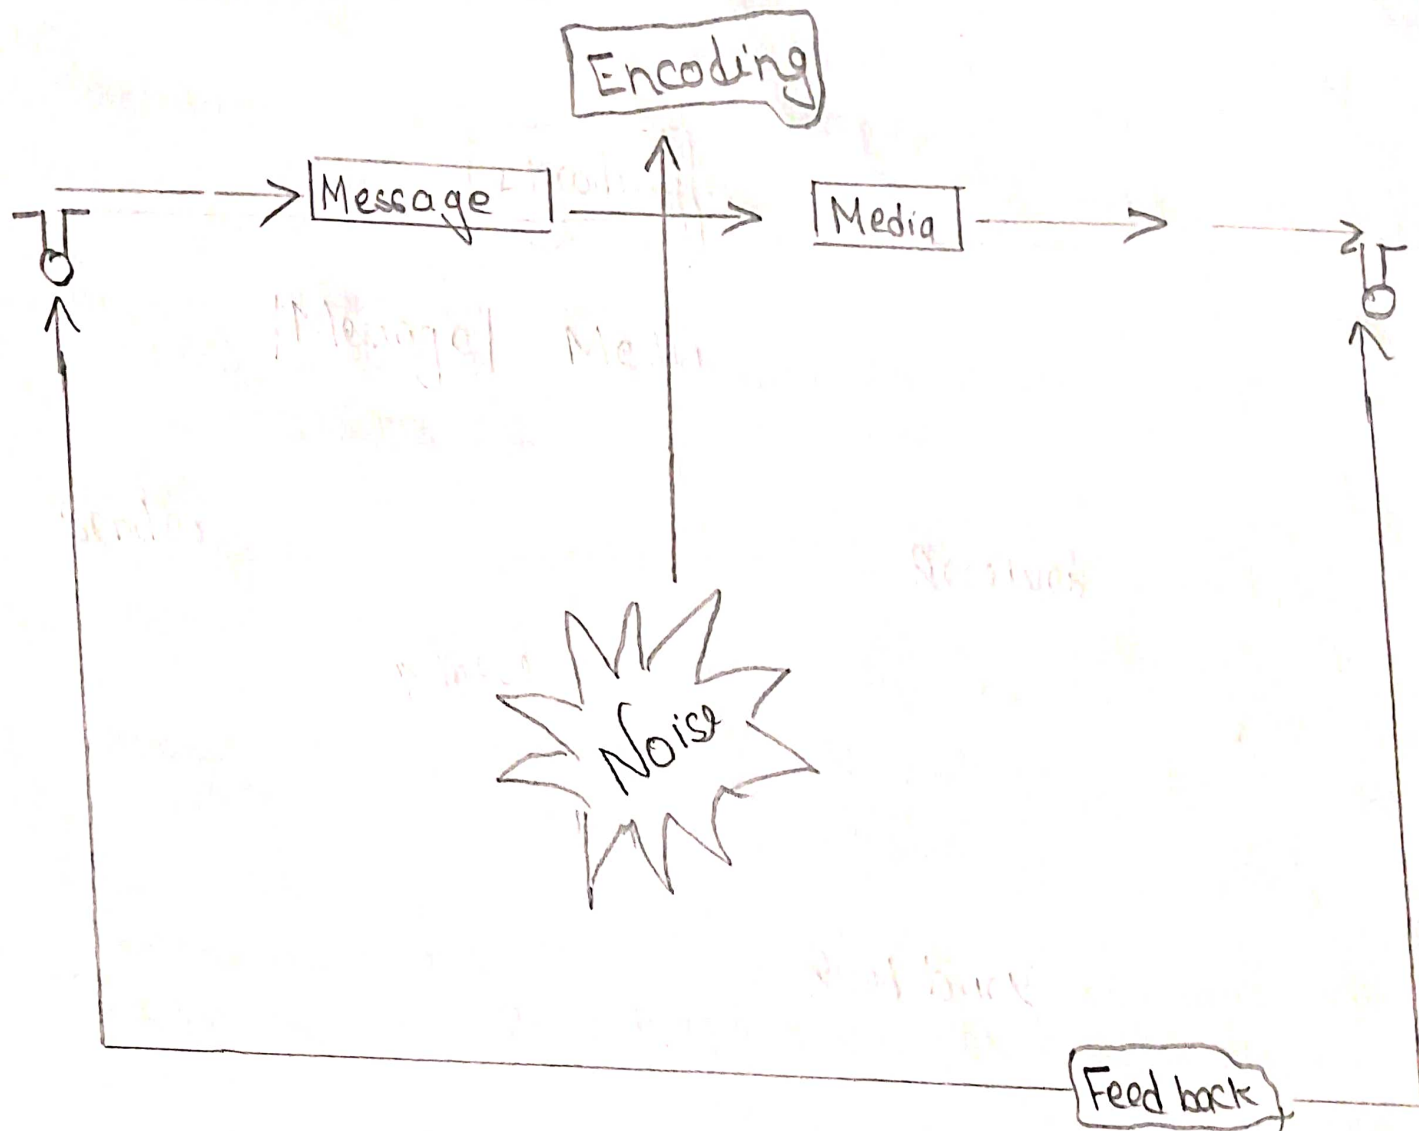

- iii) He selects an appropriate channel or medium through which the message is to be transmitted. It can be face to face communication, letter, radio, television, e-mail etc.
- iv) The message is received by the receiver.
- v) Receiver's message is decoded by the receiver so that the receiver can draw the meaning of the message.
- vi) The receiver sends his response to the sender. In case of any confusion, the same is conveyed and necessary clarification.

Importance of communication -

Communication is the organization as blood is to the body. The success of all the functions of management depends upon effective communication.

Significance of communication can be understood from the following points.

1. Acts as Basis of coordination - Communication helps

In coordination the activities of various departments and persons in an organisation go along ways of them. Interpersonal relationship among many persons etc. Hence, Communication acts as basis for Coordination.

- i) Helps in smooth working of an Enterprise :-
Communication ensures smooth functioning of an enterprise. Existence of an organisation depends fully on communication steps.
- ii) Acts as Basis of Decision making :-
Communication helps in the process of decision making by providing all the necessary information. In the absence of communication of relevant information, one cannot take any meaningful decision.
4. Increases managerial Efficiency :-
The various functions of the manager include:
 - a) Providing information regarding the goals, objectives of an Enterprise.
 - b) Providing instructions.
 - c) allocating jobs and responsibilities.
 - d) overseeing the works of the workers.

All these functions involve communication, thus communication is essential for effective performance of managerial function.

S. Promoters Cooperation and Industrial Peace:-

To ensure smooth and efficient functioning of an Organisation is the main aim of the management this is possible only when there is Peace and harmony between the management and the workers. The two way communication helps in establishing same.

G. Establishes effective Leadership :-

A good leader must possess efficient communication skills for influencing the behavior of the subordinates thus Communication is the Basis of Leadership.

Related Articles :-

- Communication :- Meaning and elements / marketing
- 4 Important skills Required to make communication
- 5 main Processes of communication (with Diagram)
- Barriers to effective Business Communication
- Communication in Organisation